This book explores the geopolitics of the global cyber space to analyse India's cyber security landscape as conflicts go more online. Nation states are manipulating the cyber space to exploit each other's dependence on information communication and digital technologies. All the major powers have dedicated cyber units to breach computer networks, harvest sensitive data and proprietary information and disrupt critical national infrastructure operations. This volume reviews threats to Indian computer networks, analyses the country's policy responses to these threats and suggests comprehensive measures to build resilience in the system. India constitutes the second largest internet user base in the world and this expansion of the user base also saw an accompanying rise in cyber crimes. The book discusses how the country can protect this user base, the data dependent critical infrastructure, build resilient digital payment systems and answer the challenges of the dark net. It also explores India's cyber diplomacy as an emerging economy with a large IT industry and a well established technological base. Topical and lucid, this book as part of the Gateway House Guide to India in the 2020s series will be of interest to scholars and researchers of cyber security, digital diplomacy, foreign policy, international relations, geopolitics, strategic affairs, defence studies, South Asian politics and international politics.

The eleventh edition of Who's Buying Entertainment is based on unpublished data collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics 2013 Consumer Expenditure Survey. You can't get these data online. It examines how much Americans spend on amusing themselves by the demographics that count: age, income, high income households, household type, race and Hispanic origin, region of residence and education. To round out the spending picture, it also presents who are the best customers, analyses of the data showing the demographics of the best and biggest customers at a glance. The individual products and services examined in this report include items ranging from television sets to movie tickets, video games, cable service, pet food, toys, sports equipment and recreational vehicles. New to this edition is a unique analysis of spending before 2000 to 2006 and after 2006 to 2013, the Great Recession.
