this is a story about the world being controlled by machines the evolution of technology has been so high that humans no longer have control over it humans made their doom by letting robots do things for them no one thought that one day they could have their own mind and revolt against humans but now it is too late humanity is lost they must do what the robots order or they will die some humans managed to escape the robots but now they have to live far from cities some live in the forest others on beaches far from cities and others in the mountains and still others live in caves and the humans who are in the cities are slaves to the robots and some are being used to carry out experiments and these experiments transform the victims into half human and half robot transform them into androids some tried to escape but died the robots want to build a spaceship to go to other planets and use humans to do this forcing them to build it for them while the survivors are free from the machines they plan to defeat the robots and prepare to attack with all their strength it will be a difficult fight but they will have to do it to survive and regain their freedom this is a real war between humans and robots humans have never been so weak and without control of the world they live in but at the same time they discovered space aliens area 51 etc because robots can see further than humans the animals continue to live normally but now with robots instead of humans because the animals have never done anything to the robots and do not threaten them will this be the end of humans or will they recover their world again robots are stronger and more intelligent than humans but humanity will never give up on recovering their world again even if they have to sacrifice themselves to do so it's too late to change the past but they can still change the future and rebuild it again
